Following graduation, Ines served an internship doing restoration for the U. S. International Committee for Monuments and Sites at Fort Union, New Mexico. Ines had been working as a research associate, running experiments and analyzing data for the Arthropod-borne and Infectious Disease Laboratory (AIDL) in the Dept. of Microbiology and Immunology and Pathology at the CSU Foothills Campus. Ines enjoyed hiking in the mountains and biking everywhere she could go. She especially liked long-distance biking. Water sports were a passion of hers, swimming and whitewater rafting especially. She loved the ocean as well. Ines also loved live local music and dancing, especially Latin, rockabilly and alternative country music. She was her own person, was strong willed and had a clear sense of right and wrong. She is survived by her parents, Jorge Oliveira Da Silva and Palmira Antunes da Graca Marques in Lisbon, Portugal; her sister, Ana Rita Marques Da Silva; a niece, Margarida; her two god-children, Esteven and Sophia Judson-Crespo; as well as the many close friends she has made over the years.

“ Às vezes, sem aviso, o destino prega-nos partidas e altera o nosso curso precocemente e para sempre. Infelizmente foi o teu caso. Levas contigo uma vida cheia e preenchida, privilegiada pelo sucesso das coisas a que te dedicaste com vontade e de coração. Que o teu novo caminho seja iluminado. Até sempre
RIP

Maria João Sousa

Sometimes, without warning, destiny fold-in tricks and change our course early and forever.

Unfortunately it was your case. You take with you a full and fulfilling life, privileged by the success of the things that you devoted yourself with pleasure and willing heart.

May your new path is illuminated. Till always

RIP

“ I had the privilege of meeting Ines in the spring of 2004, when she came to CSU to pursue a degree in microbiology. Ines was such a breath of fresh air: down to earth, funny and with a totally unique way of looking at life. Ines worked hard to finish her degree at CSU, and the world is a better place for Ines having been in it. As with all of her friends, I miss her very much, as do many of the faculty, staff and students that she worked with and befriended over the years. I think that she must be smiling somewhere and saying "ok, you're sad, but get on with your life!" I hope that her family and friends are comforted by the fact that she took such joy in life, and brightened every room that she ever walked in. I will do my best to live the lessons that she taught me, and will never forget her. RIP, sweet woman. We'll be thinking of you often.

“ Nunca estamos preparados para uma notícia como esta, especialmente quando acontece tão cedo, a quem tinha tanto para dar e viver. Recordarei a tua vida e o que nela pudemos partilhar. RIP. - - - - We're never ready for a new like this, specially when it happens as early as it was with you who had a lot to give. I'll remember your life and what we could share and live together. RIP. Gonçalo.

“ I loved your fighting attitude. I loved working with you, you made the days easy. And you never took anybody's shit, including your former boss. You taught me to get me to get healthy, and I will continue to work at it in your memory. I am grateful to have been your friend. Sorry about the times I let you down, but I will continue to work on things, and think of you. I had fun with you in Greeley. I'll miss you, ANISH! Forever, Nobody...

“ A wonderful woman, fondly remembered and terribly missed. My deepest condolences to her family and friends. I wish I would have had more time to tell her what a cool chick she was. God bless.
