“ Ken was a student of mine at U of Illinois. I found him a talented, warm, and funny guy. We reconnected recently via Zoom alumni gatherings. He was still warm, funny, and thoughtful. He was one of my favorite students, D Roger Dixon

“ Ken was such a kind and gentle soul, I am so sad to be hearing of his passing. I had the honor and privilege to perform with him in several theatrical productions and he was such a talent to work with. You will be greatly missed, Sir.

“ Nostrovia my friend. May the flowers bloom over your grave in the same way you made my life richer and more fertile.

“ I am saddened to learn today of Ken's passing. We were roommates our senior year at the University of Illinois. I was privileged to have acted with Ken in some plays at Illinois, he was a brilliant actor, but more importantly, we became close friends. I know it is a cliché to say we were like brothers, but we were. We stood by each other during that difficult time of being 21 years old and wondering, what's next? Ken was simply one of the smartest, most talented and most unrelentingly positive people I have ever known. Over the ensuing decades, I went to California to pursue an acting career and raise four children and Ken went first to Chicago to pursue his acting career and later to Fort Collins to embrace his other great love: environmental science. I was blessed and fortunate to visit Ken in May of 2021. He took me to many of his favorite places in my rented Jeep. We went to Rocky Mountain National Park and visited many of the streams and rivers he loved so much. We enjoyed some great meals at some of Ken's favorite restaurants. Though our visit was just for a long weekend, we vowed to get together again soon. Now, sadly, that will never happen. I am heartened to hear that Ken was laid to rest in the beautiful Colorado Mountains he loved so much. Rest In Peace my friend, the world has lost a shining light.
