“ I worked with Paul through ACE Reporting-US, LLC where he worked as a verbatim hearing reporter and I the Office Manager/Scheduling Coordinator. Paul was well-liked by everyone he encountered in this job. He worked with many people at the SSA Office of Hearings Operations - Denver/Fort Collins. Denver is a large office and he had many encounters with multiple administrative law judges, medical experts, lawyers, and claimants. We talked on the phone many times during his 2 years time with us and told me many times he loved this job. This role made him feel like he was giving back/being of service to others. The hearings he recorded were for people who had applied for disability, which can take years for some to get a hearing. He was empathetic and kind. I remember seeing Paul for the first time during an MS Teams Training post-COVID back in May of 2021. He was wearing a large cowboy hat. That made me smile. I'm from the midwest so the cowboy hat to me is indicative of a man who is a gentleman and hard working. He lived up to that notion from my perspective. Most of the people I work with within my role at ACE, I never get to meet. It was nice to see Paul on the screen and put a face to the voice. Every time we talked after that, I had this visual of the man wearing his cowboy hat. I know I can speak for everyone at ACE and probably some folks at the SSA office in Denver; we will miss Paul dearly. I'm tearing up writing this because he left a mark on my heart. Paul was a good man and I will miss talking to him. I will carry the memories and a picture of him in my mind. Julia, and family, I am so sorry for your loss. --

“ I always loved our conversations, such a great story teller and thinker. It was fun to have him sit in with us with the church band on bass. Such a great attitude and a lifter of our spirits. He never missed the opportunity to joke about his absolutely massive hands and fingers that could only fit a fretboard enough to play bass guitar and NEVER a puny 6-string guitar. Amazing, strong, 4-octave voice and multi-talented. A real man's man and we'll miss you around here, Paul. See you on the other side!

“ Paul was a great student when he was at IBMC in the Paralegal program. He was always prepared, asked great questions and was ready to help other students in any way possible.

“ He was a friend who was much like a big bear. His hand shakes were great. He was so proud of the sword cane he donated as a prize at our annual party at Rock Rest. I am honored to have it and think of him when I use it nearly each day. He will be missed so much, there is a hole in my heart that will never be filled. Via con Dios my friend, my brother

“ Captain Chance, a man that inspired and drew folks to him. I remember how we would chat on the phone at least once a week about anything and everything. I knew what a gem of a friend I had with this wonderful man. He is greatly missed.
