

Steven Ackley

March 5, 1946 - June 2, 2013

R. Steven Ackley, an adored and much beloved father, grandfather and audiology professor, died unexpectedly on June 2 while sleeping at his home in Fort Collins, Colo. He was 67.

The cause of death was congestive heart failure and vascular disease.

Steve, as he was known, mentored numerous students over the years and dazzled them in the classroom with his humor, down-to-earth charm, love of learning and scientific research and guidance to question what they thought they knew.

Since 2000, he had been a professor at Gallaudet University in Washington, D.C. He previously served as chairman of the university's Department of Hearing, Speech and Language Sciences and most recently was director of the department's Ph.D. program. He taught many graduate-level audiology courses with a focus on pediatric, medical and geriatric audiology, balance testing and anatomy and physiology.

He also served as a confidant, mentor and personal comedian to his students, who routinely called him their favorite professor, showered him with copious thank-you notes and expressed their love for him and his compassionate nature.

Before joining Gallaudet, he served as chairman of the Audiology and Speech-Language Sciences Department at the University of Northern Colorado in Greeley and had previously been a professor at Colorado State University in Fort Collins.

He wrote research-based articles and book chapters and edited "An Essential Guide to Hearing and Balance Disorders" published in 2007. He won numerous awards from his colleagues and students. He served as president of the American Association for the Advancement of Science's Southwestern and Rocky Mountain Division from 2001 to 2003.

He spent much of his professional life teaching students and helping people. In college, he worked as a counselor at Camp Courage for children with special needs.

He earned his bachelor's degree from Cornell College in Iowa. He received a master's degree in deaf education from what is now McDaniel College and then worked at the Maryland School for the Deaf.

He earned his Ph.D. in audiology from the University of Colorado, where he developed a lifelong love of the state's mountains, camping and fly fishing.

He enjoyed Shakespeare, especially CU's summer productions performed outdoors, and he wooed his future wife with poetry he wrote.

In addition to his focus on audiology, he taught sign language. No matter the subject, he inspired students with a thirst for knowledge, discovery and caring. He counseled his students about their career paths and worried about the personal details, such as them finding housing in safe neighborhoods in D.C. He was known to many of them as "Ackley" or simply "Ack."

He had recently conducted research on hearing health among Native American and Alaskan Native peoples, and was about to embark on a one-year sabbatical leave helping the Ojibwe people of Minnesota by analyzing data related to their hearing health. This research initiative was to be sustained for several years by his doctoral students.

He was a Baltimore Orioles and Colorado Rockies fan, but his favorite baseball team was that of Denver's South High School when his son played first base.

He was an utterly devoted father and grandfather, whose kind smile became a fixture at his grandchildren's day care, St. Ann's in Hyattsville, Md. He almost never missed a school function, and regularly picked them up, his eyes and their eyes lighting up whenever "Papa Stebes" arrived. When he vacationed in Colorado in recent summers, he sent his granddaughter postcards with beautiful mountain scenes every day. Among the many gifts he lavished his grandkids was a microscope for his granddaughter, fostering the next generation of scientists.

He was a gracious and generous host, who enjoyed preparing feasts, especially of smoked ribs and pulled pork. If his kids needed a ride to the airport at 3 in the morning, Papa Stebes was happy to do it and would bring juice boxes and snacks, too.

He is survived and desperately missed by his daughter, Kate Ackley Zeller, her husband Shawn and grandchildren Madelyn and Luke of Washington, D.C.; his son, United States Air Force Capt. Jonathan Ackley and his wife, Brittany Edwards, who currently reside in South Korea; his former wife, Mary K. Ackley of Denver; two brothers, James Ackley of Payson, Utah, and Alan Ackley of Des Moines, Iowa; as well as cousins, nephews, in-laws and many adoring former students and colleagues. He was preceded in death by his parents, Karen N. and Wayne Ackley of Des Moines, Iowa.

Visitation and services will be held from 2:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. Sunday, June 9, 2013 at The Lodge at Mackenzie Place, 4751 Pleasant Oak Drive, Fort Collins, and at 3 p.m. Saturday, June 15 at Chapel Hall on the Gallaudet campus in Washington, D.C.

“ I know this is much belated as I just found out in my Gallaudet Today magazine, but I had to write in case the family is still reading these. He was truly my favorite professor in my undergrad studies at CSU and taught my first sign language course. I went on to obtain my Masters of Deaf Education at Gallaudet, I say in part thanks to Dr. Ackley. He was so down to earth, eager about his field, and fun to be in class with. I tried to keep in touch through the years, and he always remembered me! I was so sad to read of his passing and send warm thoughts to his family and friends. What a gift to the field and to people.

“ It is amazing how we lose touch with people and how quickly time passes. I just heard today about Steve's passing from another one of his former students. Like me, she considered him to be one of her favorite teachers. Although I am no longer in the field of Audiology, some of my fondest memories of Ft. Collins include time spent with Dr. Ackley. Professor, mentor and friend are words I would use to describe this influential man. Even though it had been many years since our last visit, just the thought of Dr. Ackley always brought a smile to my face. He will be missed.

My condolences to his family and friends.

Regards,

“ I was thumbing through one of my professional journals when my eyes fell on a memorial article about my former classmate, Steve Ackley. Although I had not seen him for years, I felt secure in knowing he was only an hour away from my office in Baltimore.

Steve and I started the Master's degree program at Gallaudet in 1969. The year he was there he was a definite presence. He was a serious student and oh so studious. He was also a riot and could be relied upon to come up with a wonderfully sarcastic reference to almost anything. He kept his peers on our toes and he also kept us laughing. I thought it great poetic justice that he landed back at Gallaudet after all those years.

This a loss for all. I am so sorry that he had to leave so soon. I know family, friends, students and peers have many good memories and we could probably tell some good stories. Be at peace Steve. Look down and smile and go ahead and laugh.

“ I have just recently heard of the passing of Dr. Ackley. My deepest sympathy to his family and loved ones. Dr. Ackley was by far the best teacher and professor I have ever had the pleasure of learning from. His expertise along with his ease of communication and genuine interest in audiology motivated myself and countless other students. Despite his obvious successes in the field of audiology he was always modest, never intimidating, and always approachable. He is the first person I think of when I think of my education as an audiologist. Beyond being a fantastic professor he was a genuinely kind person. ..sincere, patient, funny, thoughtful. He had an ease of well-being that encouraged others to be themselves. His love for his kids, Kate and Jonathan, was obvious even to his students. He talked of them constantly and we all felt we knew them through him. I have fond memories of him bringing them to our graduate classes at CSU when they were little--I think that is when I saw him smile the biggest. My wish for you both is that despite the sadness and pain you are going through you will notice his presence in the small things and I hope it will help to bring you peace.

Many blessings to you and yours,

“ Some people come into our lives and quickly go.
Some people move our souls to dance. They awaken us to new understanding with the passing whisper of their wisdom.
Some people make the sky more beautiful to gaze upon . They stay in our lives for while, leave footprints on our hearts and we are never, ever the same.

Thank you Steve. You are missed.

“ I am deeply saddened to hear my favorite professor at CSU is no longer here with us. He was the most genuine person and someone I have always held close to my heart and thought of often. I remember him walking into class and saying "hey hippies" and then the great times would just roll. He kept everyone so engaged. His enthusiasm for hearing science and his brilliant sense of humor along with an amazing caring soul are things I will never forget. He was a great man. My condolences to his family. I remember him talking about Kate and Jonathon, he adored his children. Tracy

“ Dr A, I can hardly type this with my shaking hands and tear blurred vision but just had to tell the world how influential you were in my career. How tragic to learn of your passing on social media but I know it wouldn't have been long before I called or emailed as I often did to ask a question about Audiology. You always taught me to seek to understand why with every theory. You were the ultimate scientist and kept everything light. I remember as I struggled with my dissertation how you put your feet up (on your messy desk) and said Heather the process is just as much of a lesson than the result. How right that has been in many aspects of my life. I will be grateful for your mentoring and later friendship and I will make you proud Dr A. Hugs!

“ They Called Him

they called him mentor he loved his students so always with the answer always in the know

they called him comedian
he was fun and made us laugh some thought him really serious we knew that he was daft

they called him scientist he added knowledge without a doubt he brought insight to a problem and often teased the answer out they called him colleague and better friend you could not have not a single thing about him could be thought of as really bad

they called him clinician his empathy was awesome to behold he treated patients expertly as if family of his own

they called him papa devoted as he could be a better grampa honestly you will never see they called him steve its who he was to me his light shined brightly for me it often helped me to clearly see

I will not get used to darkness
But then he would not want that outcome to be
He would want me to shine brightly
In his honor for others to see

“ I worked with Steve at MD School for the Deaf in the early 70's and remember him as a Very Nice Person (the caps are intentional) with a wonderful sense of humor. I have memory of him having to interpret at the last minute for a guest speaker, which he did in a suit and hiking boots! And he did a great job. He was one of those unique individuals who was really bright, a great communicator, and truly interested in the people around him. He enjoyed life to the fullest. He's already much missed. Rest in peace, Steve! My thoughts and prayers are with you and your family.

“ I am so very sorry to hear about the passing of your dad. He and I taught sign language classes together back in 1972 - 73 at MD School for the Deaf and he was always lots of fun. He had a true gift for communicating with people and I learned a lot from him. He truly was one of a kind and we all thought a great deal of him. My thoughts and prayers are with you and your family.

“ Kate, Shaun and family,

We are thinking of you in this difficult time. The suddenness of his death will make it even harder to process the reality that you Dad is gone. However, once the healing begins, you will have nothing but the good memories in your hearts.

God bless you and your beautiful family. So glad that you have strong faith to help you through this.

“ Back in graduate school, just when I would be getting burned out or discouraged, I would take an Ackley class. He would fire me up again and make me love our field and all that there was to learn. His approach to teaching, along with his charisma, was hard to beat. EVERYONE felt comfortable and engaged with Dr. Ackley.

“ Dr. Ackley was the best! I remember him once throwing the syllabus for a class in the trash and just starting a conversation about whatever the topic was. He was a great professor who inspired you to want to learn. I got to see him last when I lived in Omaha and he was speaking at a scientific conference. He really had so many friends; not just in audiology. We were lucky to know him.

“ I'm saddened to hear the news about Dr. Ackley. He was my advisor & professor for several years at UNC in Greeley. His humor, down to earth, and stories about real life examples made learning fun and even more interesting. Often times as we left his classroom and saw him in public, he didn't treat us as students. We were his friends and he showed a genuine interest in our lives. He touched so many lives and his knowledge base left me in awe. My thoughts and prayers go out to his family, friends, and students who will all miss him dearly.
