

Solomon Hill Hughes

August 8, 1968 - November 8, 2016

Solomon Hill Hughes, 48, of Loveland, Colorado, died in his home on November 8, 2016. Solomon was born in Little Rock, Arkansas to Howard Hughes and Glenda Fay Vawter. His deceased spouse is Rebecca Ann Doyle, the mother of his only two children. He is survived by his two daughters Armelia Ann Hughes and Mariah Beth Hughes as well as his two granddaughters, Emily and Mackenzie. His 10 siblings are Janis Geary, Heather Hughes, Tami Hutchenson, Naomi Hughes, Adam Hughes, Joseph Hughes, Sean Hughes, Sheri Neal, Bret and Megan.

Solomon was a self employed contractor working as a window installer. He also installed siding and was able to and did pretty much anything else that was needed. While his wife was alive, Solomon was pretty much the sole bread winner for family. After she passed away, he not only became both mother and father to his two daughters but also to his two grandchildren when they were born. His two granddaughters became the pride and joy of his life.

Solomon loved the outdoors, hunting, fishing, barbeques, bonfires and everything else that is done outdoors. The main indoor activity he enjoyed was watching the Broncos, the Seahawks, and all the other NFL teams play football. He also enjoyed just relaxing with a cold beer and listening to his music.
