She built amazing friendships throughout her years there with her colleagues and took pride in her work. For the past four years she has been Operations Manager for a couple in home health care facilities. Amy always had a giving heart which made her a respected and beloved employee.

Amy was a dedicated mother first and foremost. Her two children were her pride and joy; she cherished every moment with them. She was a very supportive mother, and she strove to be one! She loved watching Levi play hockey and football growing up, and never missed a game. Whether it was taking him to football camps or endless club hockey practices, Amy enjoyed supporting her son in every way. Amy was also a devoted cheer mom to Chloe when she was in high school. She hosted multiple team dinners, made bows for the girls, and was always there when anybody needed her. You could most often find her by the pool or on the golf course. She always had the beach in her soul, and it was evident in every aspect of her life.

When Amy was at home, her kitchen was her favorite spot. She loved to cook and bake, especially for others. Amy was a master chef to say the least. She never let anyone leave without a home cooked meal. Whether she was following an old family recipe or creating a new one, you could always be excited about what she was whipping up.

Amy was always very crafty. She was an amazing artist and loved to paint. In the early 2000's she even ventured to open a "paint your own pottery studio" which she and Jeff ran for five years. She also knew how to sew and was quite good at it. Amy made all her kids Halloween costumes growing up. She could tackle any DIY project you threw at her and was up for anything that challenged herself.

Amy also loved to shop and was always on trend. She enjoyed mountain drives to Estes with her family on the weekends. She loved listening to music, she could not live without it. She was a great dancer and a free spirit. She could light up any room she walked into.
