Ed attended catholic school at Calvert Hall in Baltimore, MD. He enrolled in law school at the University of Baltimore. When he returned to the United States, he traveled to California and tried his luck at screenwriting. He had many good memories and lasting friendships. While in California, his entrepreneurial skills kicked in and he received his real estate license. Ed and Ann joined the Westlake Village Optimist Club where he loved to help the kids. He became President and the Governor of the Pacific Southwest District throughout Southern California while helping build clubs for youth and participating in braille Olympics, programs for the hearing impaired and the Special Olympics. Those who knew Ed will remember his impressions. His favorites were Bogart, Columbo, the Godfather, and Jimmy Durante. He was often asked to perform at parties. He and his wife Ann worked as the first docents for Ronald Reagan at the Ronald Reagan Presidential Library. Ed authored two books and at the time of his passing was working on a third. He was most recently a member of the Fort Collins Sertoma Club.
