“ George and I met at a Restaurant called Hulahans in San Diego on my 20th Birthday ! I was out with my older sister and we decided to stop for dinner. As we waited for dinner in the bar area having a drink George was there celebrating his bosses birthday. George had a cast on his right leg from 900 lbs of plaster bags falling on him. We caught a glimpse of each other and he decided to be Quick Draw McGraw and shoot me with his finger and blew the smoke off his finger and pretended to put it in a halster by his side. He did that twice and the third time I decided to play dead. That's when he got to okntoncome meet me. He came over to me and introduced himself tried to guest my age by taking my hand and squeezing the skin together on the top of my hand - close but he was off by one year. I don't even remember if I ever ate dinner all I remember was George taking me to my car and he threw his hat in my car - I gave him my number and the rest is history ! We were never apart for over 40 years. George was the love of my life - he was full of adventure, had a great sense of humor, loved the outdoors and taught me everything I know. I miss him everyday and look forward to the day we meet again.
