“ Things will never be the same, the world is a little bit lonelier and more serious. I can hear your laugh echo in my ear saying "aye mija that's why we get along so well because we are so much alike". You always lit up the room with your smile and your contagious laugh. You always fought with me and said grandpa was yours and I would cry and you would pick me up and give me a hug and say ok we can share him. I will forever miss your comforting hugs and your wise words and great conversations. My heart hurts knowing your gone but I feel at ease you're with daddy. He called you his chicle this last time because you never left his side and for that I will for ever be grateful. Thank you for being there for me and for standing beside dad through the worst of times and the best of times. I love you so much Tia! Rest in paradise and fly high with the angels! #saldanastrong

“ Isabel was such a sweet woman. The last time I saw her I must have been about 10 or 11, but I have these wonderful memories of her making Bianca and I food at sleepovers and watching House in our pjs in the living room. I remember her always being so inviting and loving towards me. She will be deeply missed by so many people whose lives she came across. She truly was an amazing woman.

“ Isabel and I became friends because our daughters introduced us. I was basically alone and she welcomed me in her life. One of my favorite memories would be us going to Central City. We would stop at a gas station and she already knew to get 3 different kind of chips and mix them all together for our 'Trip snacks'. It was always an adventure. The last time we saw 3 deer right in front of us and it almost made us loose our snacks. 😊😊. But we won!! I will always remember that early morning, it was about 2 a.m. and we just couldn't sleep after that. Sorry girls, but it was freaking awesome.
