“ Lisa was a friend, a mentor, and big sister all wrapped in one. I say good bye with a heavy heart but with a profound sense of gratitude for having had the privilege and joy of having Lisa in my life. She always had time to hear my happy stories, my not-so-happy stories, and to give me her honest opinion.

It was our work and true love of law that connected us. It is a special kind of pain to lose a mentor. I find myself not only grieving the memories and moments that we had but all the lessons that I had not been taught yet. She is still the first person I want to call when something good or bad happens, and when I want to talk about what to do next. She always had the answer and a cheerful positive attitude that made me believe that I could do it and do it well. I find (try to find) comfort in knowing that her teachings live on in me. Every client that I help will be because of the lawyer that she helped to shape me to be.

Lisa, I truly miss you. We are going to keep fighting the good fights that we started together - I know that you are looking down on us and cheering us on. I love you.

“ I miss you. I still catch myself calling you...you are a great sister and I always knew you would give me the best advise. You are gone too soon...I'm only grateful you are no longer in pain. I miss you..I love you.
