

Sara Stollsteimer

May 31, 1966 - March 11, 2009

Remembering Sara Well I don't know what to say. I wish I could tell you it would be ok. I know Sara is and always will be more to you than just a friend. She is a big part of who you are. The day she came into your life she forever changed what you were to become. That's what people do; they are all put in our lives for the bad or good they bring. As friends, we make you cry and laugh, throw you hands up in frustration and bring them together in praise. When you think you've figured us out, we change once more. As I said, both good and bad. The key thing is as you move along life's path with us you grow. Sara has made you laugh, cry and grow. She challenged you all the way and you and her became as you put it, sister and friends. She is and always will be a part of you no matter where life takes you. All you need to do is say her name and she'll be there laughing and holding your hand through whatever you are going through at the time. Just because she was called home to God doesn't mean she was taken from you or the people she touched. She's not in pain nor is she feeling alone. God is holding her in his arms and comforting her. Every day she is walking with Jesus and getting to talk with him and all the hurt the world handed her is gone. She is now and forever perfect in the eyes of God. Never again to be hurt nor feel no one cares. She knows now how much she will be missed by the ones still finishing the mission God has them doing. I know we wanted her to stay longer and only go when we do. God just wanted her home and we will see her when we finish the job he sent us to do. I know she is just waiting to hear all about what we did and how we did. Just like everyone else we lose before we are ready to. God gave you 29 years to meet and get to know Sara and I know you loved every minute. Now you have to share what she gave you with everyone so we all can get to know her as well. Never let anything make you regret the last 29 years no matter how she was called home. God has her now; I don't believe otherwise. She is just a thought away and always in your heart and mind. As long as you keep her there, she lives inside you forever. That's what I believe and when God calls you home, she'll be waiting for you in Heaven. I wish she too had stayed longer with us. I am sorry you are sad but as I said, she is with God. I am sure of that.

Tribute Wall

AK

“ I still can't believe you've been gone nearly 16 years tomorrow

alysa Klein - March 10, 2025 at 11:46 PM

“ Sara Stollsteimer

October 25, 2022 at 06:14 PM

GN

“ Dearest Mike & Alysa ...

Our warmest thoughts are with you ... May your most beloved memories soon replace your tears with smiles...

Gretchen Nichelson - March 11, 2009 at 12:00 AM

NR

“ Sara was obviously a lovely young woman, apparently very much loved.

She is safe in the loving arms of her Heavenly Father now. My faith assures me that we will see her again. She will rush to greet us. We will live together eternally. Families are forever. I say these things in the name of Jesus Christ. Amen.

Nadya Rossi - March 11, 2009 at 12:00 AM

AS

“ You guys, I'm sitting here trying to work and images of Sara keep coming to my mind, so I started googling and ended up here. I just wanted you to know I'm thinking of you and you are in my daily prayers, praying for peace, for strength. I have learned a little about grief and I want to share it. First, there is no way around grief, you have to go right through it. There are dark days and better days ahead. And you know how sometimes you'll have a few moments where you feel better? The sun kinda comes out and you have a little peace? Those moments will begin to come more often and last longer, I promise. Thinking of Sara tonight, wishing her a safe journey and sweet dreams, and blessed peace.

Ada Stollsteimer - March 11, 2009 at 12:00 AM

AN

“ Dear Alyssa & Family,

No words can ever come close to expressing my condolences to you all.

Sara was a very special lady with a bright smile, and a true heart of gold.

Each time I saw Sara, she was very sweet, welcoming, and she always had smile on her face.

This is a very difficult time. However, we all must be strong at this time of great loss.

Please remember, there are many, many people who love you, care about you, and are here for you, and one of them is me!

My loving thought and prayers go to you all.

Many Blessings,

Ann Nunez

Ann Nunez - March 11, 2009 at 12:00 AM